BRUCE DANZER graduated from Trinity College (B.A., 1973) and Harvard University, Graduate School of Design (Master in Architecture, 1978). After working for several firms in Baltimore, MD and Washington, DC, Bruce joined STUDIOS Architecture and from 1987 to 2002 was a senior designer and firm principal in Washington DC and London UK. Bruce provided design and management leadership on projects including Accenture, Apple Computer, Bloomberg, Nike, Gucci Group and Turner Broadcasting/CNN (London).

In 2002, Bruce Danzer started his own firm, LAB [3.2] Architecture, as a vehicle for small architectural projects, design consulting and teaching. Bruce has provided interior design consulting services to William Rawn Associates and other architects in Boston on civic and institutional buildings. Bruce currently is a design consultant to Flansburgh Architects in Boston.

Bruce Danzer's involvement with the Fine Arts Work Center began 15 years ago with sculpture classes led by Paul Bowen and Bailey Bob Bailey. During the past five years Bruce has collaborated on the renovation of three FAWC apartments and, as a Trustee and Co-Chair of the Building Committee, has been actively involved in developing the masterplan for FAWC's campus, concepts for renovations, and construction reviews of the current renovations of the Stanley Kunitz Common Room, the Hudson D. Walker Gallery & Bookstore, and five visual arts studios.
